

Chapter 13

- How do you console yourself about your sin? Where do you find peace?
- Why does God now always allow for peace to be found?
- Why is it dangerous to look for peace in places and ways outside of Gods provision?
- How may our efforts to find peace be actually opposed to God's grace?
- In what ways are we to seek the peace that actually flows from God's grace?
- How can you tell if your peace comes from your methods or from God's grace?

Owen provides five rules to aid us in determining whether the peace we seek is truly from God or a false peace we speak to ourselves.

- How does the peace that God provides not only comfort us but change us?
- How does peace from God at the same time produce deep humility?
